Vale Duncan MacGillivray

GRAIN Producers SA chairman Garry Hansen says the grains industry has lost one of its finest this week, following the sad news of the passing of Duncan MacGillivray.

"Duncan was a larger-than-life character and he, and his contribution to the grains industry, will be sorely missed," Mr Hansen said.

"He was managing director of Kangaroo Island Pure Grain and it was clear he put his heart and soul into working with KI's grain growers to deliver them premium returns.

"The business went from strength to strength under his leadership, which saw it emerge from a start-up company to now exporting KI-branded grain and honey to Japan, India and Egypt.

"He was an outstanding entrepreneur with a passion for agriculture and a clear understanding of how to build an international brand for the benefit of farmers.

"On behalf of the South Australian grains industry, we extend our sincere condolences to his wife Oopy, his family and friends."
